Train The Trainer Program

Adel Hawatmeh, Germany 1-9-2015 till 30-10-2015.

1-9-2015 to 15-10-2015 at “PRIF” Peace Research Institute Frankfurt.

I have joined “PRIF” at the beginning of September for research on my topic entitled “Jordan’s Role in Resisting Extremists Groups: Case Study; Daesh” (ISIS), under the supervision of Prof. Dr. Harald Mueller.

During this time, I attended a lot of events, discussions and the annual “PRIF” conference at the institute, which aided me to improve my research.

Dealing and interacting with different cultures and nationalities can contribute in reshaping a scientific character, which is based on dialogue, respect and the acceptance of others. Also, I was able to expand the network of my relationships with many people, and exchange the ideas particularly German researchers.

It was very important for me to highlight my country’s role in resisting all extremists groups, especially Daesh “ISIS” with their threats on refugees and the borders. It was also important to reveal the truth of the Islam. Throughout my stay, there were several enlightening discussions about such subjects in my presentation.

19-10-2015 to 30-10-2015 at. Hochschule Neubrandenburg

I believe that it is very important to visit East Germany in order to form your perfect opinion about Germany, and to learn a lesson from the German's unity, equality and justice among all Germans and their lands.

Through my stay at Hochschule Neubrandenburg, I have worked to develop my skills with Prof. Dr. Steffi Kraehmer and Prof. Dr. Norbert Northoff on how we can establish initiatives, especially when there are a large numbers of refugees in military camp in Neubrandenburg.

Insan is the name of one of the initiatives that was founded by the Hochschule Neubrandenburg students to give Syrian refugees hope.

I have visited the refugee camp with a group from Hochschule Neubrandenburg. We talked with some of them on their opinion on German policy in receiving Syrian refugees. I found great appreciation for the German side, and its role in helping to solve the refugees' crises.

All in all, Train the Trainers' program has given me the opportunity to discover German civilization by visiting many cities like Frankfurt a.m. Wiesbaden, Hanau, Friedberg, Offenbach, Berlin, Neubrandenburg...etc.
