Brief

Describing myself as an enthusiastic young professional with endless ambition for developing my skills and surrounding work environment in the fields of accounting systems, economic analysis and growth for small and medium enterprises. This objective was behind conducting my research in my M.Sc. Thesis at London Brunel University. The thesis has taken more than two years of hard work and research that addressed the Jordanian Economical Environment and its impact on the growth of SMEs. This experience is motivating me towards working in Jordan and in the fields of Economic Research, Education and developing SMEs and their relationship with financial houses and governmental institution.

Personal

As I enrolled into Jordan university I found myself with what seems to be a natural talent of connecting with those in front of me and thus disseminating knowledge was the outcome of this talent , combined with the ability to find correlations and causality I was able to further develop my understanding of the economic paradigm in order to better understand the optimal solutions within the matrix of economic decisions and accounting procedures .
