FUTURE UNIVERSITY CONFERENCE

May 20, 2026 | GJU Main Campus,
Amman Madaba Street

AI breakthroughs have made the long-heralded paradigm shift in higher education a current necessity and reality. Future universities must supplement the teaching of increasingly rapidly obsolescent knowledge. They need to enable students to maintain their position in an acceleratingly changing environment, to question certainties, and to collaborate in a solution-oriented manner on complex current and anticipated problems. Universities themselves must change or will be replaced by tech giants.

FUTURE SKILLS REQUIRE FUTURE UNIVERSITIES!

TOPICS

The 1st German Jordanian Future University Conference at GJU brings together German and Jordanian university members to work on the following questions and alike:

- What are conditions and developments leading to the paradigm shift?
- What are the needed future skills?
- How can future skills be taught?
- What role do micro-credentials play?
- What is the future for traditional study programs?
- Will students be able to customize their educational programs across different universities?
- What legal conditions, structures, equipment, processes, networks, standards, and capabilities are required?
- How urgent is the need for reform?

Pioneers of the reform in Germany are providing impetus. University representatives from Jordan and Germany will present existing and planned reform measures at their universities. Workshops will explore individual issues in greater depth. The results will be summarized in a resolution following the conference.

CALL FOR WORKSHOP PROPOSALS

Participants of the German Week, invited Jordanian Universities and staff of the German Jordanian University are encouraged to submit proposals for workshops on related topics for Session 4 to:
