VII. Course Descriptions

1. Compulsory Courses

TAX7101 Economics and Taxation Policy	3 Cr Hr	7 ECTS
--	----------------	---------------

This course provides a comprehensive examination of the economic theories and policies that underpin taxation systems. It explores the impact of taxation on economic behavior and the overall economy, integrating principles from both microeconomics and macroeconomics. Students will analyze the role of taxation in influencing government policy decisions, including its effects on resource allocation, income distribution, and economic stability and growth.

TAX7102 Direct Taxation: Policy and Practice in Jordan and Other Countries	3 Cr Hr	7 ECTS

This course provides an in-depth examination of income taxation systems, focusing on Jordan and comparative perspectives from other countries. Students will explore the foundational principles, legal frameworks, and economic impacts of income taxes, including personal income tax, corporate tax, and capital gains tax. Through a blend of theoretical insights and practical applications, the course aims to equip students with the knowledge to analyze and implement tax policies effectively.

TAX7103 Indirect Taxation: Policy and Practice in Jordan and Other Countries	3 Cr Hr	7 ECTS

This course delves into the principles, policies, and practical implementation of indirect taxes, with a focus on Jordan and an examination of practices in various other countries. Key topics include value-added tax (VAT), sales taxes, excise taxes, and customs duties. Students will study the rationale behind these taxes, their economic impact, administration challenges, and compliance strategies. The course blends theoretical frameworks with real-world case studies to provide a comprehensive understanding of indirect taxation systems.

TAX7104 Tax Compliance and Transfer Pricing: Policy and Administration in Jordan and Other Countries	3 Cr Hr	7 ECTS
---	----------------	---------------

This course offers an in-depth exploration of tax compliance strategies and the complexities of transfer pricing in both domestic and international contexts, with a focus on Jordan and comparative insights from other jurisdictions. Students will examine how businesses manage tax liabilities through legal means, including the structuring of transactions and operations. The course will also cover the principles, regulations, and methodologies related to transfer pricing, emphasizing alignment with global standards and local compliance requirements.

TAX7105 International Tax Issues: Policy and Administration in Jordan and Other Countries	3 Cr Hr	7 ECTS
--	----------------	---------------

This course explores the complexities of international taxation, focusing on the interplay between Jordanian tax laws and those of other countries. Students will study key issues such as double taxation relief, tax treaties, cross-border tax avoidance, and evasion strategies. The course also covers the roles of international organizations like the OECD and the UN in shaping tax standards and policies. Through case studies and practical examples, students will gain insights into how multinational enterprises manage tax obligations across different tax jurisdictions.

TAX7106 Tax Administration: Organization, Procedures and Professional Practice in Jordan and Other Countries	3 Cr Hr	7 ECTS

This course provides a comprehensive overview of the organizational structures, procedural frameworks, and professional practices involved in tax administration in Jordan, with comparative analyses from other countries. Students will learn about the operational aspects of tax collection, enforcement, and compliance. The course also covers taxpayer services, dispute resolution mechanisms, and the use of technology in tax administration. Through a blend of theoretical instruction and practical case studies, students will develop a thorough understanding of how tax systems are managed and implemented effectively.

TAX7201 Special Topics and Guided Study in Taxation3 Cr Hr*7 ECTS

This course offers students the opportunity to engage deeply with specific, evolving issues in the field of taxation that are of particular interest or emerging importance. Topics may vary each semester based on current trends and developments in tax policy, practice, and theory both locally and internationally. Guided by faculty expertise, students will undertake individual or group projects that involve research, analysis, and presentation on selected tax issues, allowing for a tailored educational experience that enhances their expertise and readiness for professional challenges.

TAX7301 Capstone Project in Taxation3 Cr Hr*7 ECTS

The Capstone Project in Taxation serves as a culminating academic endeavor for students in the higher diploma program. This course requires students to integrate and apply their knowledge and skills from previous coursework to solve real-world tax-related problems. Under the guidance of faculty advisors, students will identify a significant issue in taxation, conduct thorough research, develop solutions, and present their findings in both written and oral formats. The project encourages practical engagement with the field of taxation, fostering a deeper understanding and innovation in addressing complex tax challenges.
